Matt(thunderbolt) is coming by tomorrow to give me a hand. Not sure what I am going to do now..The box internals melted and started to squeeze out the sides. So I think it is junk now. $75 down the drain...I started the truck and it was working fine. I started to program it and once it hit the high speed it sparked and smoke was everywhere. I shut it down quickly and disconnected the battery. See, I hate electrical stuff!!!!!!!!!!

Dude that sucks, apparently something was crossed in there.....

And unless one is up in the classifieds, then your chance of getting a DC controller seems slim to non-existent.

you could call mike at madenterprise, hes got a good fan controller that have a great rep.

I have Matt(scuba matt) coming over today to take a look..Hopefully he can make the old controller work. I doubt the SPAL unit will work. I will keep you updated. Thanks, Bruce
